Tuesdays: Creepy Crawling Insects.

Wednesdays: Seeing a Story through Art.

Kids will create 2 moments in a story's journey and then a final drawing of their favorite part to share with family and friends.

Thursdays: Squishy Painting that Teach Symmetry.

Another story book inspired art session.

Children love to ooze and squish things and so this type of painting is perfect for them. It teaches them about basic symmetry and color, while encouraging them to look at their paintings in detail. The easiest form of symmetry for kids to understand is called reflection symmetry where two sides are identical.

Group Butterfly and then kids can try as many times as they like creating symmetrical images and sharing with the class what they imagine they created until class ends.
